In the outpatient section, where there are 9 specialist outpatient clinics, X-ray diagnostics and a laboratory, 50.000 to 60.000 patients are being treated annually. The Clinic disposes of 136 hospital beds. Approximately 5.000 patients are hospitalized annually. The Clinic has 5 operating rooms where more than 4.000 surgeries are performed each year. Most of the treated patients are from the city of Skopje, however there are many patients who come from other places from the country and abroad.

The biggest problem of the Clinic is the lack of space, because the types of interventions are constantly increasing, same as the number of interventions. The Clinic's building is already too narrow for the normal implementation of modern methods of diagnosis and treatment. It was damaged from the earthquake that occurred three years ago. At the moment, rehabilitation and reconstruction of the Clinic's building is being carried out, which will improve the working conditions to some extent, however this will not resolve the problem with the lack of space. For this reason, the Ministry of Health plans to build a new, larger building, on some other suitable location, where the working conditions and the treatment of patients would be significantly better. However, despite the fact that we are currently working in difficult spatial conditions, the PHI University Clinic for Surgical Diseases "St. Naum Ohridski"-Skopje provides the most modern diagnostic procedures (x-ray, echotomography, computed tomography, magnetic resonance imaging, breast diagnostics, gastroscopy, colonoscopy, etc.) and therapeutic operative procedures (open and laparoscopic surgeries, arthroscopies, TUR, etc.).

The Clinic has an administrative part for economic and legal matters, with 32 employees. Currently the PHI University Clinic for Surgical Diseases "St. Naum Ohridski" - Skopje has 343 employees, of which there are 88 doctors (62 specialists and 26 specialization students), 75 nurses with secondary education, and 44 with higher education. In addition to the healthcare activity, the Clinic also performs teaching-scientific activity with 9 assistants, 1 docent, 1 scientific associate, and 6 professors.
